"I am in favor of a commission to be appointed to make a careful study and report to the Legislature on the subject of health insurance for working men. This is a matter of such tremendous importance to all the people of the state, and so beset with difficulties, that I believe no action should be taken without the most careful consideration of a commission upon which will be represented the interests of labor, of the employers and of the health authorities of the state. Such a commission, however, should proceed to a prompt consideration of the subject and make a prompt report of its conclusions.

"A Governor's record is sometimes as remarkable for his vetoes of questionable legislation as it is for his record of legislation approved. The workers of this state have not forgotten the fight that was made shortly after our entrance into the war to break down for the period of the war those standards of working conditions that have been so firmly established here. Under the plea of patriotism and war necessity the Legislature enacted the so-called Brown bill, which was opposed at the hearing before me by all the responsible spokesmen for the labor movement.
